The Church has always had to contend with the question of salvation outside of Christianity. This question took on a new context when the New World was discovered: millions of people who, through no fault of their own, did not know Christ. Now, in an age of global communication and commerce, can we remain faithful to the Gospel's insistence that Christ is essential for salvation without dismissing the authentic faith of those who do not accept Jesus Christ? What does this say about religious freedom: in the U.S.; in predominantly Muslim countries; in the Far East, where Christianity is often a small minority?

FOR THERE IS ONE GOD

1 TIMOTHY 2:5

FROM THE DESK OF THE PASTOR | DESDE EL ESCRITORIO DEL PARRACO

Mammon is the Hebrew word for "money." So, when we hear the last line of this weekend's Gospel reading, "You cannot serve both God and mammon," it is reasonable to conclude that the Gospel is about the proper use of our material possessions. But that is only partially true. The important line in the gospel comes earlier when Jesus says, "No servant can serve two masters." What Jesus believes is that if we are going to be happy, if we are going to live a full life, we must serve God alone. God alone must be our master. Now it is not always easy to serve God but when we serve God, we know we are on the right path. When we serve God, we understand that God's love is guiding us. So, the person who serves God lives a blessed life.

But occasionally, we are tempted to hedge on that service. Every so often, we are tempted to let another good thing compete with our service of God. This introduces conflict and worry into our lives. Money can be an example of this. You cannot serve both God and money. Not that money is bad. We need money. We need money to live. We need money to retire. But when we begin to think that the money we have is there because we have earned it ourselves and forget how God has blessed us to enable us to do that, or when we look at our money and say, "Because we have this, now I can deal with any crisis or calm any fear," then we let money become our master. And money will, in time, let us down.

Friends, the only master who is faithful, both here and hereafter, is God. Only God will never fail to love us. So, whenever we become tempted to split our commitment between God and some lesser thing, today's Gospel tells us to resist. It asks us to stay with the master who will never abandon us. It calls us to serve the master whose love will always endure. Fr. Eric. God Bless!

Mammón es la palabra hebrea para "dinero". Por lo tanto, al escuchar la última línea del Evangelio de este fin de semana, "No se puede servir a Dios y a Mammón", es razonable concluir que el Evangelio trata sobre el uso adecuado de nuestras posesiones materiales. Pero esto es solo parcialmente cierto. La línea importante del Evangelio viene antes, cuando Jesús dice: "Ningún siervo puede servir a dos amos". Lo que Jesús cree es que si queremos ser felices, si queremos vivir una vida plena, debemos servir solo a Dios. Solo Dios debe ser nuestro amo. Ahora bien, no siempre es fácil servir a Dios, pero cuando lo hacemos, sabemos que estamos en el camino correcto. Cuando servimos a Dios, entendemos que su amor nos guía. Así, quien sirve a Dios vive una vida bendecida.

Pero a veces, nos vemos tentados a reducir ese servicio. De vez en cuando, nos vemos tentados a dejar que otra cosa buena compita con nuestro servicio a Dios. Esto introduce conflicto y preocupación en nuestras vidas. El dinero puede ser un ejemplo de esto. No se puede servir a Dios y al dinero a la vez. No es que el dinero sea malo. Necesitamos el dinero. Necesitamos dinero para vivir. Necesitamos dinero para jubilarnos. Pero cuando empezamos a pensar que el dinero que tenemos está ahí porque lo hemos ganado nosotros mismos y olvidamos cómo Dios nos ha bendecido para que lo hagamos, o cuando miramos nuestro dinero y decimos: "Gracias a que tengo esto, ahora puedo afrontar cualquier crisis o calmar cualquier miedo", entonces dejamos que el dinero se convierta en nuestro amo. Y el dinero, con el tiempo, nos decepcionará.

Amigos, el único amo fiel, tanto aquí como en el más allá, es Dios. Solo Dios nunca dejará de amarnos. Por eso, cuando sentimos la tentación de dividir nuestro compromiso entre Dios y algo inferior, el Evangelio de hoy nos dice que resistamos. Nos pide permanecer con el amo que nunca nos abandonará. Nos llama a servir al amo cuyo amor siempre perdura. Padre Eric. ¡Que Dios los bendiga!
